

In this discussion, we will look at various aspects of private imprisonment, guardianship declarations, and social assistance systems based on the relative's responsibility, exploring how family/household is a barrier to independent living for people with mental disabilities in Taiwan.